NO CHOICE BETWEEN THEM.

One of The Herald's most highly esteemed "American" contemporaries says with some show of feeling that we are opposing their party rather than the Republicans; and it cites in support of this notion some editorial comment on Senator Smoot. The Herald's position is clear enough to anybody who wishes to be honest. Both the Republicans and the "American" wing of the party are now constituted as obstacles to the growth of the state and city. Such progress as has been accomplished here has been in spite of the factional quarrels which have distressed the people ever since Senator Smoot entered upon his career as dictator of Republican politics in this state. Whether he was responsible or not for the warfare which ensued, it has wrought untold injury and established conditions which will continue so long as he remains in politics as the dominant figure of his party.

The "American" party, which is only another name for the anti-Smoot wing of the Republican party, is obnoxious for exactly the same reason. Through its agencies the state has been defamed, the social and commercial life of the people has been disturbed, politics has degenerated into a guerrilla battle in which any tactics are considered legitimate so long as they make for victory. Responsible to no national organization and held together by the cohesive power of municipal plunder, the party has made a record of mismanagement in the city which ought to drive it out of authority at the first opportunity the voters have to express their convictions.

Naturally, under such conditions, the Democrats of the city and state, as well as The Herald, oppose both the Smoot faction and the "American" faction with all the force possible. Identified with neither of them, having no regard for them, believing their defeat would add immeasurably to the welfare of the people, the Democracy has maintained an independent organization, with the ultimate defeat of both as one of its chief objects. It could not, if it would, assume to say which faction is the worst; and it can see no peace for the people of the state until both are driven from power and compelled to reorganize along national lines under a real Republican standard, where they belong.

Being in control of the capital city, it is natural that the "Americans" should come under closer scrutiny than the Republicans; but as between the two in a campaign of the sort being waged, there can be no choice between them, since they both contribute to the existence of conditions which have become intolerable.

AFRAID TO MEET THE ISSUES.

The cowardice of the Republican leaders is without parallel in the history of presidential campaigns. Instead of meeting the issues fairly and squarely, they are skulking under the protection of the big corporations and trying to distract the attention of the voters from the full measure of reform promised in the Denver platform. The correspondent of the Indianapolis News recently quoted a man high up in the Republican councils as follows:

If we had to fight out the campaign on the issues Bryan has raised—tariff reform, publicity of campaign contributions, regulation of the trusts, guaranty of bank deposits, etc.—we would, I believe, stand to lose. But we intend to put those issues in the background by making Bryan himself the real issue. We think we can convince the people that the election of Mr. Bryan would prolong the present financial situation. We shall make our appeal to every man, whether he be at the head of a corporation or be working for a corporation, that if he wants to see prosperity return he must vote the Republican ticket.

Mr. Bryan probably smiles grimly as he buckles on his armor, realizing that victory must be certain when only the mud batteries of the opposing army are in working condition. But what a humiliating spectacle is presented by the party which boasts of Lincoln and Sumner, Seward and Chase and the other great Republican leaders who came forward when the issue of slavery was finally to be decided. Under discredited chieftains the present Republican party seeks only the spoils, and is not over-nice as to the manner in which they are secured.

Speaker Cannon endeavored to cast a slur upon the great Nebraskan by saying he was a millionaire and that he had accumulated his wealth by "wind and ink." The New York Times is fighting the free silver battle over again, but it remained for Judge Taft to put the finishing touches on this puerile plan of campaign. In a congratulatory message to members of the Marquette club of Chicago, who had chartered a steamer to boost for the Republican ticket along the shores of Lake Michigan, Mr. Taft says:

I sincerely hope that the steamer Roosevelt, on which you embark, will take you safely and that you will carry good Republican doctrine to the 500,000 people whom you will meet on the trip and that you will convince them that it is the height of folly for the American electorate, just as we are regaining the confidence of capital, which is necessary to the resumption of prosperity, to put in power the Democratic party under its present leader, whose political history cannot but make Democratic success under his leadership a menace to prosperity and means the destruction of business confidence.

This from the man selected to carry out the so-called reform policies of Roosevelt. Has Mr. Taft the "confidence of capital which is necessary to the resumption of prosperity?" and if so, how was this confidence secured and is the "prosperity" for general consumption or merely for the capitalists who are partners with Mr. Taft in the working out of this confidence game?

"Sink the issues and go for Bryan" is the battle cry of the Republicans, but it will hardly win this year. The people of the country know what they want, and if the Republican party is not willing to give it then it must take the consequences. Showing the white feather in the face of the enemy is punishable with death in all civilized countries.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Utah, with all the other coal producing states, is interested in the decision of the circuit court of appeals in the commodity clause case involving a question of constitutional law. In the Hepburn act, congress declared that interstate transportation lines could not transport commodities in which they were interested as owners. The chief object was to prevent the ownership of coal and lumber lands by railroads; and, if the law was held valid, the result would be to compel the coal-carrying lines to dispose of their immense holdings of coal lands.

In its decision the court holds that this clause of the act is unconstitutional and so invalid; that the railroads have a right to own such lands and transport the coal, just as an individual or a private corporation could. This upholds the contention of the roads and will enable the Rio Grande, among others, to operate its holdings of coal land in Utah.

The case of Helen Maloney, who married Arthur Herbert Osborne and afterward eloped with Samuel Clarkson, an Englishman, is before the supreme court of New York for final decree declaring the marriage null and void. They're having a dickens of a time settling the young woman right before the world.

The scarcity of $1 and $2 bills in New York is causing comment in banking circles, as millions of 'em were printed during the panic last fall. Perhaps they will turn up all right the morning after election.

The government suit against the powder trust comes up at Wilmington, Del., Sept. 22. This may engross the attention of General T. Coleman DuPont from the Taft campaign for the time being.

The fellow who took a couple of shots at Dreyfus has been acquitted. Evidently the prejudice excited by the celebrated case still exists and justice under the circumstances is impossible.

Speaker Cannon having brought down the wrath of Mr. Bryan upon his head will find few defenders. Roosevelt probably will not, and Taft dare not.

The board of trade of Springfield, Mass., has offered a cash prize of $500 for the best plan to advertise that city. What's the matter with Hilsen, isn't he advertisement enough?

This is the open season for country congressmen and the farmer is abroad, gun in hand. Too late for promises or explanations.

The commodities clause of the Hepburn act has been declared unconstitutional. Rejoicing on the part of Brother Baer.

The man who looted the sub-treasury at Chicago and got away with $713,000 is safe to enjoy the spoils. The government has given up the chase.

EMPTY TREASURY.

"And you say you almost starved to death in your last position?" said the kind housewife. "What position was it?"
"I was treasurer of a poets' union," responded the dusty wayfarer with a deep sigh.

SOCIETY

Miss Rhea Nibley entertained yesterday at a most delightful and unique afternoon affair for Miss Hazel Taylor. The party was a suggestion one, and a great deal of fun was caused by the various suggestions given to the bride. A handsome book with loose leaves was taken and a decorated leaf given to each guest. A headline showed the subject to be treated, and each guest wrote fully on her topic. The subjects ranged from "How To Be Married" to "How to Secure Husbands for Your Daughters." The book was then bound together, making a handsome gift. Following this a high tea was served, when the hostess was assisted by her sisters, Miss Alice Nibley and Miss Nan Nibley.

Mrs. W. W. Cluff and her daughters, Mrs. Lillian Cluff Pawlas and Miss Birdie Cluff, entertained at cards last evening for Miss Hazel Taylor and Harold Peery. The home was bright with autumn flowers, and ten tables of players were arranged through the rooms. At a supper served following the games, the guests of honor and members of their bridal party were seated at one large table, which was decorated in red. Cluny lace over red satin made an effective centerpiece, and bright red flowers were used in addition. Prizes in the game were awarded the winners at each table.

Mrs. Clarence E. Traver was the hostess yesterday afternoon at a bridge tea at her home, when six tables of players enjoyed the game. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ullie of Fort Douglas, Mrs. Lewis Evans, Mrs. A. H. Peabody, Mrs. W. L. Ellerberg, Mrs. A. L. Hoppaugh and Miss Estelle Clinton. At the tea following Mrs. Traver was assisted by Mrs. Louis Cates and Miss Hanks.

Miss Lucile Young entertained Wednesday for Miss Viola Godbe at a luncheon at her home. The decorations were of lavender and white asters, and the other guests were the Misses Myrtle Jack, Texas Craig and Kate McQuarrie.

Mrs. C. H. McMahon is in from Canyon Crest ranch for the winter, and is at home at 247 East Brigham street.

The Misses Viola and Mildred Godbe will leave Wednesday for Cincinnati, where they will attend school.

"Our Bishop Burgess," said a Garden city man, "is one of the few American clergymen, who, being graduates of the famous University of Oxford, are entitled to wear the Oxford hood."

"At a certain service another bishop, also an Oxford man, nodded toward the officiating clergyman and whispered excitedly to Bishop Burgess:

"Why, look, he has got an Oxford hood on."

"So he has," said Bishop Burgess.

"But he is not entitled to it. He has no Oxford degree," exclaimed the first bishop. "Why, the man is wearing a lie on his back."

"Hush," said Bishop Burgess. "Call it a false hood."

BABY'S ITCHING BURNING ECZEMA

Almost Drove Him into Convulsions—His Head and Face a Mass of Terrible Humor—Suffering was Dreadful—Is Permanently Cured.

DOCTOR PRESCRIBED CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my son was only about a year old eczema began to break out on his face. It kept getting worse and we called in a doctor who told us the only way to make it worse, until his head and face were a solid raw sore. It was awful. He suffered dreadfully, and screamed until we thought he would go into convulsions, it would itch and burn so. We became so dissatisfied that we called in another doctor. He prescribed the Cuticura Remedies. The baby commenced to get better right away, although by this time the disease had a good start. I don't think we used more than three bottles of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. It was perhaps several months before all traces of the eczema were gone, the last being behind the ears, but the Cuticura Remedies cured him completely, and he had the prettiest head of curly hair growing after he commenced to get better. He is now not quite twenty-four, and he has been cured permanently.

"My face is very tender and Cuticura Soap is about the only soap I can use without irritating the skin. Mrs. L. A. Fox, 1679 So. Washington Ave., Denver, Colo., Dec. 26, 1907, and Jan. 6, 1908."

Too much stress cannot be placed on the great value of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills in antiseptic cleansing and other purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, thus affording pure, sweet and economical treatment for inflammations, itching, irritations and pains, as well as such sympathetic affections as anemia, chlorosis, hysteria, nervousness and debility.
